SUMMER 2004

Reunion Meeting Outlines Present and Future of Zeta Psi at Dartmouth

At reunions in June, a group of about 20 alumni and current brothers attended a house meeting convened by T. Weymouth '79, one of our Elders on the Board of Directors, who reported on the "State of the Zeta." Highlights of the report:

➤ Despite having been derecognized by the College in 2001, Zeta Psi at Dartmouth continues to exist and operate legally as a fraternity. We are still recognized by the Zeta Psi International Fraternity. There currently are 27 undergraduate brothers, and, in addition to the traditional "hanging out" in the basement, the fraternity hosts a variety of well-attended low key social events.

➤ Notwithstanding the foregoing,

House finances remain precarious. The Corporation has been unable to rent the rooms for brothers (or others) to live in the House, which led us to lease the living room as office space to the Dartmouth Review in order to be able to cover expenses. When the Town of Hanover deemed this lease arrangement to be non-compliant with the Town zoning laws, at our request the Review vacated the premises at the end of the Spring Term, again leaving the House cash-strapped. We need to find a way to raise at least $15,000 annually for the House to remain viable.

➤ To address the financial situation, the Elder Chapter's Board of Directors is ar-

Meetings fellow Brothers. In my first year of service as elder chapter treasurer I have had the pleasure of meeting many of you and I look forward to meeting many more brothers over the coming years. Together with our undergraduate treasurer, I have spent many hours in the last few months investigating our ability to meet our current and future financial obligations. These obligations mainly revolve around our 85 year-old house, but part of the vision of the Board of Directors is to someday be able to provide scholarship money for our undergraduates to relieve them of some of the financial burden of being in a fraternity.

While our chapter is still strong in tradition and membership we are in a very precarious financial position. As a result of our unfortunate derecognition it is not possible for the undergraduates to make 8 Webster Avenue their full-time home. While some brothers are de-facto in-residence, the income from our undergraduates that has kept our house self-sufficient for 150 years is no longer present. To replace this money we

Three years removed from derecognition, the Psi Epsilon chapter of Zeta Psi has certainly recovered. With the departure of the Class of 2004 this June, no brothers in the house will have been part of a recognized house at Dartmouth. Still, we are maintaining the traditions of the house, while continually looking to improve the state of the house and the brotherhood.

Our greatest obstacle is our inability to raise money, as brothers are unable to live in the house during terms when we are taking classes. To raise some money early last year we leased the living room to the Dartmouth Review. Our relationship with the Dartmouth Review came to an untimely end in February when the Hanover zoning board

Aging Physical Plant Can Be Restored Donations From Elders Are Necessary

by Jesse Cook-Dubin '01, Elder Secretary
Greetings fellow brothers. After assuming my position last fall I had the opportunity to review our records from the past 20 years, including many letters from concerned brothers who are worried about the condition of our physical plant (8 Webster Avenue). I share your concerns and I am proud to announce that the Board of Directors is working toward rectifying this embarrassing situation.

Prior to our recognition we began a series of renovations, including a complete replacement of the floor, walls and lighting fixtures in our living room, and replacement of the chimneys and boiler. For those of you who have not visited the house recently I urge you to wander in to the living room and see what a difference this renovation has made. I believe this transformation is possible for all the living spaces in our house.

The undergraduates have done a commendable job of keeping the house from further deterioration over the past ten years. Making any positive progress, though, is beyond their meager resources, especially in these lean times following our recognition. As we work with the college to find a way to re-recognize Zeta Psi it has become abundantly clear that we will need to restore our entire house as we successfully restored the living room.

Unfortunately, without a steady stream of income, these major renovations have not been possible. Aside from paying our property taxes, the elder chapter's main responsibility is to provide the money for extraordinary expenses such as the work it will take to restore our 85 year-old house to its former glory, and to bring it into the new millennium. When you pay your dues, I ask you to keep these major renovations in mind. If you want to lend a helping hand to this project you can restrict your gift to physical plant maintenance only by indicating as such on your check or when you donate on-line.

With your help we can all visit a house we will be proud to have once called home.

Undergraduates Work to Maintain Physical Plant 85 Year-Old House Gets a New Coat of Paint

by "Clubber Lang" '06, House Manager
As we enter the Fall term, the house's condition steadily improves. Over the past several months we have systematically cleaned the bedrooms, making them into comfortable living spaces; the house is now cleaner than it has been in recent memory. As a consequence of recognition, enrolled students cannot live at 8 Webster Avenue, but the constant presence of brothers makes the house as lively as ever. The number of brothers who have taken up second homes in the house speaks volumes about how our situation has improved over the past few years following recognition. The energetic atmosphere of the house is a clear sign of the fraternity's vitality.

This past year, we restored the kitchen to its former glory. Due to the harsh winters over the past years, the pipes in the kitchen repeatedly froze and cracked, causing significant water damage. The lack of water to the kitchen meant that the sink and the laundry machines did not work. This problem was corrected and our addition of pipe heaters ensured that the brothers would not have to haul massive bags of dirty laundry to nearby dorms in the future. The ability to use the kitchen and laundry machines has made the house an even more attractive alternative to campus housing for our brothers on their off-terms. We also repaired the kitchen and bath room, considerably improving the appearance of the house.

For several months last year we had a tenant, the Dartmouth Review. Unfortunately, due to Hanover zoning restrictions, we are no longer able to house the Dartmouth Review. While we have lost the Review's rent money we have regained our living room. Now that the living room is vacant once more the brotherhood has used the first floor for a variety of social events from casual poker games to large parties. The return of our living room has greatly improved the house's social options. The spacious room is in fantastic condition with new windows, a well-maintained wood floor and an excellent furniture setup.

We have also worked hard to restore the exterior of the house. Bright lighting makes the house warm and inviting even on the coldest winter nights. The sandvoly-

Class Council Forming Members Still Needed

by Phil Gerwin '02, Elder Vice President

The Elder Chapter Board of Directors has officially formed a Class Council. The Council will consist of one or two brothers from each graduating class and will be a tool for fast dissemination of information and equally fast polling of the membership on important issues. As such, the Board will be able to make decisions with more information and in a more democratic way than ever before. With increased dissemination of information the Board's decisions will be more open to comment and review by the brotherhood. When the Council has been fully established every Elder will have at least one brother that he has a personal connection to that he can bring ideas and problems to for a full hearing by the Board.

Much like many of the other programs

the Board has implemented this year, the Council's goal is to facilitate communication diverse group of brothers is indicative of a prevailing attitude of inclusiveness, especially when debating the current and future status of the fraternity.

The new Board believes that by creating a body politically representative of a wider array of alumni it can tailor the decisions it makes to the interests of the brotherhood as a whole.

The Board is asking for brothers from all classes not currently represented to volunteer as their class's Council representative. Please email our secretary, Jesse Cook-Dubin at: jcdubin@alum.dartmouth.org if you would like to become a Class

Council representative in both directions, from the Board to the brotherhood and from the brotherhood to the Board. The Council also gives the opportunity for a larger number of brothers to become involved as Elder members.

must now turn to you, our faithful alumni. We need to raise approximately $15,000 per year, mainly to pay our property taxes. To accomplish this reasonable goal the Board of Directors has been considering several options for communicating our needs more effectively than we have in the past. The '79 and '99 classes, fresh from their reunions, are already planning larger donations to rise to this challenge.

Some of you have not made donations in the past. If you are in a position to donate now, I implore you to give as much as you can. If you have generously paid dues in the past I urge you to reevaluate your personal donation level and see if you can give a little more. The continued presence of Zeta Psi at Dartmouth depends on your donation.

I welcome any of you to email me at: jason.gelman@alum.dartmouth.org if you would like to discuss the state of the elder chapter's finances or fundraising in detail. Zeta Psi at Dartmouth is a proud, old tradition that we must not let fail. I urge you to become more involved in the elder chapter, both financially and personally. If you don't make an effort to maintain our viability now you may not have a house to visit on your next reunion.

Wine & Cheese 'Tails, Clambake Highlight Social Calendar

This year Zeta has hosted a number of successful social events despite the fact that our tight budget has forced us to place our financial priorities elsewhere. At what was undeniably the most entertaining event so far this year, the house played host to a raucous crowd that came for "Wine and Cheese" "Tails to be regaled with the musical genius of cellist Daniel "Squid" Yi '06 and the wild, improvisational railings of pledgee Matt "Kaspar Ar buckle" Stoff '07 on the piano. With the departure of the Dartmouth Review from our living room, we were able to take advantage of its clear advantages in size, lighting, and acoustics over the Chapter Room. The event drew many who had never before been inside the house, and first impressions were overwhelmingly favorable. Said Krzyzstof "Boris the Bull" Siuda '06, "The girls I invited all told me they never knew Zeta was such a chill place."

Although the financial squeeze precluded any possibilities of a formal overwinter term, we held a Summer Clambake in the mold of the Spring '03 Clambake, which was an enormous success. The brotherhood each pledged to donate $30 apiece to make the event possible. Although originally intended to be a summer term tradition, we had so much fun that sentiment within the house is that we would do well to make ourselves more visibly active whenever possible and this is a great way to show (in public) how much fun we are having.

Reunions Bring Zetes Back to Hanover

25 Years Later, Class of '79 Thinks They Are Still "God-Like"

by Mark Sullivan, '79

Fiving up to their well-deserved reputation for being the finest class in Zeta/Psi Epsilon history, the "god-like" '79s returned in force for their 25th reunion. In attendance were Steve Bankert, Carl Briscoe, Mike Hanna, Billy McGee, Rob Moore, Rich Pugh, Mark Schneider, Mark Snyderman, Dave Springer, Mark Sullivan, and T. Weymouth. These 11 bro from the Zete Class of '79 represented approximately 50% attendance, versus about 35% for the reunion class as a whole. Reminiscent of old times, no '80s were present.

The basement is still central to the lives of all Zetes, regardless of age.

The festivities got underway for some on Thursday evening at Bill Mitchell's party and the class tent raucous reuniting was heard among several bro, and Schnicks once again abandoned his last beer, but still hung in there to close down the class tent with Sully once we had recovered from the concept of a last call (for alcohol). Numerous bro were asking for Ashley, Dent, Hatheway, and others who regrettably were unable to make it. Chase had a daughter's soccer tournament to attend, Harry flew to Switzerland for work instead, and Frank was still looking for the other half. All were fondly remembered and sorely missed.

Sully Pup, Weasel and The Doc

On Friday night, particularly strong performances were turned in by Bankert, McGee, Sullivan, and Weymouth at Bones Gate, again after closing down the class tent following last call. Several '79s from a couple of other houses were there too. We were schooled in the more recent versions of beer pong played on campus these days, while struggling to adjust to the current setting of five drinks to a cup instead of four. Perhaps that explains the numerous knock-overs. Fortunately, our hosts (either Gate undergrads or more recent alums or perhaps a mix thereof) were kind enough not to make the old guys chug. Eventually we reverted to super-low-net-in-the-form-of-a-board-pro-truding-up-slightly-from-between-the-two-halves-of-the-table fast pong, which kept the juices flowing until the wee hours of the morning. In fact, T and Sully were surprised by daylight as they emerged from the basement.

Saturday afternoon featured two key Zete events, the return of Scoe and a special meeting at the house during which T brought everyone up to date on the status of the Chapter's de-recognition by the College, interim activities, and potential reinstatement (see related article). Apparently the only chance for Scoe to make it to reunions was a Saturday afternoon-Sunday morning round-trip, and the effort was much appreciated. Fittingly, Scoe, along with Twills, T, and others, paced the activities for Saturday night in the Zete basement in a performance that paralleled Friday night next door. The only unfortunate note was that Schnicks missed out, having had a bad reaction to some medication that had landed him in the emergency room.

The weekend went by way too fast, a sure sign that a good time was had by all. Particularly striking was the way in which guys who in some cases had not seen or spoken with each other for perhaps 10 or 20 years could instantaneously reestablish relationships as if having never left campus, a noteworthy tribute to the bonds formed in large part through the Zete during our undergraduate days. Hopefully we will have 100% attendance at our next reunion among Zete '79s.

James "Sweeney" Mills '00 Marries Margaret Grace '01

by David "Spud" Stoner, '00

In late May, a vast horde of Zete brothers converged upon of Seattle, Washington. Members of the Classes of '98, '99, '00, '01, '02 and '03 classes all came to witness the wedding of our dear James "Sweeney" Mills '00 to the lovely Margaret Grace '01. Armed with only a great thirteenth and a complete lack of common sense, the Zete brotherhood showed the people of Seattle exactly what it was like to have the granite of New Hampshire in their muscles and (even more so) their brains.

Special thanks to Sweeney, Bryan "Bunky" Imai '99, Brett "Dodger" Kiefer '99, and their roommate Mike Frei (a fellow Zete from Cornell) for housing a large portion of the Zetes over the course of the weekend. Other thanks to Colin "Fredo" Fox '01 for managing to keep Matt "Slouch" Hosner '01 and Brian "Donnie" Schmidt '02 alive for the entire weekend out at his parents' house in Poulsbo.

The weekend commenced, as most Dartmouth weekends should, on Wednesday night with the ceremonial "First game of ship." Sweeney and David "Spud" Stoner

'00 managed to completely dismantle Bunky and Dodger. The majority of people flew in during Thursday afternoon and evening. Thursday evening, the Mills and Grace families hosted the Zetes at a wonderful beach barbecue. Highlights included the first appearance of our eldest statesman, Tom "Schmidty" Millet '98, our youngest statesman, Jesse "Busch" McCann '03, and the wonderful grilling skills of the groom himself.

Friday began with a trip to all-you-can-eat sushi where Andy "Yorkick" Bollinger showed us all once again his love for fish. The restaurant may not have known what it was getting itself into when 12 hungry Zetes showed up demanding all they could eat. Friday evening was the rehearsal dinner, where brothers who have been living around the country over the last year (such as Jason "Goose" Gelman '00, Bob "Molson O'Neil" Levine '01, Austin "Risky Bar" Wheeler '02, and Jake "HamBurglar" Shields '99) were got to catch up with the rest of the brotherhood. The bride and groom were treated to a hilarious and touching slide show of pictures of their childhoods. The favorite pictures among the crowd were Sweeney with a combed pipe at age 6 and Sweeney winning a science fair at age 10 with an exhibit testing hydroponic growth techniques on plants. The glimpse into the early years of our beloved Phi Emeritus was worth the entire trip itself.

Friday night, or "Sweeney's Last Single Night," was quite the experience. The night began with pong, with Bunky managing to stay on his homemade table throughout the evening. Pong was followed by a voyage down to the local bar. Pool, darts, and beer flowed freely.

The customary "Dartmouth people" picture from Sweeney's wedding shows how many Zetes came from across the country for the very special wedding.

Saturday began hungover and rainy. The ceremony managed to cheer everyone up, though. It was held in a local rose garden under a tent, keeping the attendees dry. The groomsmen were Fredo, Slouch, Bunky, and Jesse "Pin to" Cook Dubin '01. The ceremony was highlighted by a lovely sermon by the minister. After the ceremony, it was on to the reception, held at a lakeside restaurant.

Highlights of the reception included a moving speech by best man Slouch, who managed to even stay relatively sober up until the point of the speech (no promises were made for the period directly following the toast). Perhaps most well-remembered from the reception, though, will be Kevin "Tigger" Smith '01's jaunt out on the lake on a jet ski someone unwittingly parked at the lakeside dock with the key in it. After taking a few minutes to figure out how exactly to use it, a slightly tipsy Tigger, still wearing his bow-tied suit, managed to entertain us all as he frolicked across the Seattle waterfront.

The reception spilled back over to Sweeney's house, where more general drunkenness continued until the guests slowly passed out one by one throughout the house and the rest of the city of Seattle. Congratulations to Sweeney and Margaret!

Wedding guests were given jetskis. Kevin "Tigger" Smith '02 rides away victoriously on his.

ball court and grill in the backyard have seen considerable use over the spring and summer. Our most ambitious project is a full repainting of the house. The brothers are attempting to complete the project this fall at minimum expense but the cost of equipment needed to reach the higher points of the house may limit the scope of the project. We also hope to power-wash the house to clean up the brick areas and restore the color of the building. Unfortunately, we don't have enough money to replace our leaking roof so that project will have to wait for another year.

The house is alive and well, and in the best condition in years. With the help of an eager brotherhood and with funding from our alumni, we will continue to work hard to maintain our house. I hope to see you all at the house for homecoming.

considered their tenancy to be a violation of town zoning laws. While the loss of front money is regrettable, the brotherhood is very excited to regain our living room. We once again have a public room in which to study and hold social events. It is also beneficial for the house not to be associated with a heavily political publication. We are considering other means of augmenting our chapter income, but we realize that our options are limited.

The house is expanding its philanthropic program as well. While individual brothers have always engaged in philanthropic activities, last spring we are participated as a house in the Relay for Life sponsored by the American Cancer Society. This will be the first community event that we have participated in as Zetes since 2001. Hopefully, we will continue to expand our level of involvement in the community. We are proud to give back to our community, even in this time of organizational hardship.

rely are considering a number of options, including a capital campaign to raise enough money to cover annual operating expenses indefinitely. Details of the Board's proposals will be communicated to all in a separate communication sent in the near future. The Board is considering a wide range of options and welcome input from all brothers.

Efforts have been made, including with and through the Zeta National, to engage constructively with the College about the possibility and prospects for moving to have the College rerecognize the House. These discussions are at a very preliminary stage. While to date the College has not ruled out the possibility of rerecognition, we expect the situation to change as we persist successfully for more years without formal College recognition.

The Board of Directors has recently undergone a significant change in leadership. While Rich Roberts '83 and other former officer remain on the Board the officer positions are currently held by our more-recent graduates. The Board is committed to involving more members from a wide range of classes in running the Elder Chapter, and, as such, will hold elections at our annual meeting on the Saturday morning before the Homecoming game each year. This year's meeting is at 11:00am on Saturday, October 30th.

Those in attendance responded positively to the report, pleasantly surprised that the House remains viable despite the difficulties experienced over the past several years. Commitments were made to seek to reconnect with other brothers not in attendance and to support the House financially. In particular, the '79s in attendance said they would seek as a Class to raise a specified amount in the coming months. Others offered to write checks and otherwise to become more active in House affairs.

Anyone with questions or who is interested in becoming more involved should email Jesse Cook-Dubin '01 at jcubin@alum.dartmouth.org or call him at (617) 734-1208.

thusiasm. They have shown considerable dedications towards the recruiting effort and management of the house. Also, in a strong showing this summer, the '06s won the Greek Olympics, showing that even though we are an unrecognized house Zeta is still a strong presence on campus. Our reward was a stunning 52" HDTV.

Recruitment has become a matter of essential importance to the house. While it is sometimes difficult to recruit as a non-recognized house, the continued efforts of the brotherhood have paid dividends. We currently have ten members of the class of 2006. This number compares favorably with other fraternities on campus, especially those without athletic affiliations. While we were not able to recruit as many '07s last fall as we would have liked because many brothers were away from campus, we recruited three '07s, and hope to have a larger pledge class this fall.

While we lack the funds for major renovations, the brothers have continued to make smaller improvements to the house. During last fall we repainted the bathroom, and more of the house was painted in the spring and summer. Other projects are outlined in the House Manager's article.

Socially, we have begun a tradition of having a clambake during the summer term in lieu of a formal. Based on the success of the event this past year it seems that it will become one of the more anticipated events of the year. Other highlights of the year are mentioned in the Social Chair's article.

While we have faced certain obstacles, the spirit of the brotherhood has remained strong. Brothers have shown a continuing desire not only to be active members of the house, but also to leave the house in better shape than it was when they joined. We continue to add members who seek to improve the state of the house as early as their pledge terms. I believe that the physical and spiritual state of the house has been steadily improving over my years as a brother. I am confident that Zeta will retain its strong presence at Dartmouth and I encourage all alumni to visit the house to see for themselves. While there are challenges, the house continues to show the meddle that has allowed it to exist at Dartmouth for 151 years.
